- As far as I concerned
- From my point of view, etc

1. What are your life ambitions? Your aspirations?
2. How does your life compare to the life of your parents and grandparent? Do you think your life is easier or more difficult than it used to be 50-60 years ago?
3. What do you have that your parents or grandparents didn't?
4. Think about your possessions (things that belong to you). How many of these things do you really need and how many do you appreciate?
5. If you have to flee your house and have only a couple of moments to collect your belongings, which ones you will definitely take and to which ones will you say good bye without too much regret?
6. Can you define the difference between the need and the want? Do you confuse them at times?
7. To what extent the society (social group) you are a part of value material belongings?
8. Some people believe that we judge others by the wealth and possessions they accumulated. Do you think it is true? How much value do you personally put on personal wealth and its physical evidence?

This is a picture of an old-fashioned cash register.

To open it you need to turn the handle.

When the phone rings, it 'says' ring-ring.
When the bell rings, it 'says' ding-ding.

What is the sound of the opening cash register?

How does this sound make you feel?
